Norms for Sustenance Stipend for the PhD students (category C) who joined in externally sponsored projects but have their stipend period expired

The committee proposed by the Senate in its 57th meeting held on November 11, 2020 (Resolution # 57.7 - 28.02.2020, item#9) and constituted by the competent authority (NITD/57 Senate/60 dated 28.01.2021) discussed the issue in two meetings held on February 08 and 23, 2021.

The committee appreciated the hardship faced by the PhD students (category C) who joined in externally sponsored projects in the Institute but have their stipend period expired due to completion of the project period. The committee felt that the Institute should extend support to such PhD students who are in advanced stage of completion of their PhD work so that they can sustain themselves and meet their expenses to complete the PhD program.

The committee also realized the limited internal resource generation by the Institute, prior commitments for utilization of this fund towards PDF, multi-disciplinary projects, HEFA loan repayment and meeting the gap in the Institute expenditure and grants received and the resulting constraints faced.

With this overall perspective, the committee recommends the following scheme for implementation.

1. A Sustenance Stipend may be offered to the PhD students (category C) who joined in sponsored projects and have their project fellowship expired due to completion of the project period.
2. Applications for Sustenance Stipend shall be routed through the DSC to a Central Screening committee, who will scrutinize each application meticulously and, if found satisfactory, recommend it to the Director through SRCC. The Director will take a final decision on the matter, depending on the availability of fund.
3. The student must have registered for the PhD program at NIT Durgapur already and the progress of the PhD work been satisfactory. At least one paper must have been published/accepted for publication by the student in a SCI/SCOPUS indexed journal. The DSC must certify the same and recommend for the sustenance stipend.
4. The Sustenance Stipend will be offered for six months only and the student must fulfil and undertake the assignments given by the department as usual.

Under special circumstances and with at least two papers published/accepted for publication by the student in a SCI/SCOPUS indexed journal, if recommended strongly by the DSC, it may be extended by maximum six more months at the discretion of the Director.

5. The Sustenance Stipend shall be Rs 15,000 per month (consolidated). No other financial support shall be extended by the Institute. The students can, however, avail themselves of the hostel facilities on payment of usual applicable charges.
6. The fund for the Sustenance Stipend shall be sourced as:
 - 75% from the Institute's share of the overhead in sponsored research projects/consultancy
 - 25% from the total share of the PI in her/his project/consultancy overhead.

If the required fund is not available in PI's account, the case may be decided by the competent authority.
